

LO - Extra players during a match for certain markets

For some markets and in some sports, the Betradar system sends out information about players as individual OddsFields. However, in some cases i.e. Where FIFA and UEFA allow 23 players per team for the world and euro cup (where domestic leagues usually only allow 18 players total), some unknown home/away players may show up having a player ID equal to -1. This is because (in the case of the following example) some markets have more defined outcomes than allowed players.

In the above example (snippet taken from a "Next and Anytime goal scorer" market), the highlighted players (number 19 - 23) can be skipped as they are undefined. This is a result of the market having 46 defined outcomes, but the match only has 18 players per team.
